The Department of Geography has established strong collaborations with institutions such as Dibrugarh University, DHSK College, D.K.D College, and Cotton University to enhance academic and research opportunities. These partnerships focus on collaborative research projects, faculty exchange programs, and extension activities. Through these efforts, the department engages in interdisciplinary research, which has resulted in impactful research publications and contributions to academic discourse. The faculty exchange programs promote professional development by sharing innovative teaching and research methodologies. Additionally, the Gyanyatra extension program extends geographical knowledge to rural communities, promoting education and environmental awareness. These collaborations significantly strengthen the department's role in advancing geographical education, research, and community engagement.
